Mystery Solved.

The Great Secret of the Wonderful
SUCCESS OF VEGETINE.
It strikes at the root of disease by purifying the blood, restoring the liver and kidneys to healthy action, invigorating the nervous system.

Reliable Evidence.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:—
DEAR SIR—I will most cheerfully add my testimony to the great number you have already received in favor of your great and good medicine, VEGETINE, for I do not think enough can be said in its praise, for I was troubled over thirty years with that dreadful disease, Catarrh, and had such bad coughing spells that it would seem as though I could never breathe any more, and VEGETINE has cured me; and I do feel to thank God all the time there is so good a medicine as VEGETINE, and I also think it one of the best medicines for coughs and weak sinking feelings at the stomach, and advise everybody to take the VEGETINE, for I can assure them that it is one of the best medicines that ever was.
MRS. L. GORE,
Cor. Magazine and Walnut Sts.,
Cambridge, Mass.

THOUSANDS SPEAK.

VEGETINE is acknowledged and recommended by physicians and apothecaries to be the best purifier and cleanser of the blood yet discovered, and thousands speak in its praise who have been restored to health.

Report from a Practical Chemist & Apothecary.

BOSTON, Jan. 1, 1874.
DEAR SIR—This is to certify that I have sold at retail 1643/4 dozen (1852 bottles) of your VEGETINE since April 12, 1870, and can truly say that it has given the best satisfaction of any remedy for the complaints for which it is recommended that I ever sold. Scarcely a day passes without some of my customers testifying to its merits on themselves or their friends. I am perfectly cognizant of several cases of Scrofulous Tumors being cured by VEGETINE alone in this vicinity. Very respectfully yours,
AI GILMAN.

To H. R. STEVENS, Esq.

VEGETINE
Will Cleanse Scrofula from the System
Honest Opinion.

MR. H. R. STEVENS:—
DEAR SIR—This is to show that my son was taken sick in January, 1861, with Scrofula, which came out in large sores and ulcers on his leg and hip. His leg was swelled more than twice its natural size. He had several doctors of high standing in their profession—two from Boston and three from Charlestown—without getting a bit better. He was obliged to lie where ever he was placed, for he had no use of his limbs whatever. When we had given up all hopes of his living we were told to try VEGETINE, the great blood remedy; and he had taken it but a short time before we could see a great change. The sores run so bad that we had to change the cloths four or five times a day. Still, he was getting better; for he could move his limbs and help himself a little. He was soon able to sit up in bed, and, by constant use of VEGETINE, it has cured him. He has a lame leg, which he will probably have for life; but we all honestly believe, if we had used VEGETINE before we had bothered with those doctors, it would have saved the use of his leg, and restored it to natural health. I hope all those troubled with Scrofula will read this testimony of me and my son, who is now well and able to speak for himself. CATHERINE MAHONEY,
DANIEL MAHONEY,
10 Trenton St., Charlestown, Mass.

May 10, 1872.
The above plain but honest statement conclusively shows the quick and thorough cleansing effects of the VEGETINE in Scrofula.

VEGETINE is acknowledged by all classes of people to be the best and most reliable blood purifier in the world. dec21-4w

What Came of a Surprise.

A Christmas Story.

TRANSLATED FROM THE "SCHURR MUER" OF FRITZ REUTER.

Some years ago, when I was living in Parchen, the Herr Rathsherr Zarnekow was still living in Güstrow, with his wife and daughter, and his sister-in-law also resided with them. The three women-folk used to go out driving every day, in a little carriage that they had, with a seat behind. In front, on the little box, which was removable, sat the coachman, the frau rathsherr and her sister sat inside, and the daughter rode on the seat behind.

One day,—it was not long before Christmas,—the coachman came in: "Herr rathsherr," said he, "somebody has stolen the box from our carriage."

Well, the Herr Rathsherr Zarnekow was very angry, and went scolding up and down the room. And just at this moment, his brother-in-law, the Herr Rathsherr Darius from Parchen, drove up to the door. In those days, the Parchen magistrates were mostly men of mature years, who had sown their wild oats; but the Herr Rathsherr Darius had still a great appetite for practical jokes, being as yet a supernumerary. He had been so, to be sure, for some three-and-twenty years, and might have got through with his nonsense; but he said to himself: "Of what use is it, while I am only playing rathsherr, to put on a long face and pretend to be wise?" and went on cracking his jokes, at the expense of other people. For all that, I would not have advised any one to attempt a practical joke at his expense; then he would put on the herr rathsherr at once, and what was lacking in dignity would be made up in craftiness.

As the Herr Rathsherr Darius entered the room, he was full of pleasure at seeing his friends again, and the Herr Rathsherr Zarnekow was full of vexation about the stolen box; and when the women folks came in, they were half glad at seeing their brother, and half sorry at not seeing the box. Their riding must be given up for the present; there was no place for the coachman; for that he should sit behind with the daughter was not to be thought of. They talked about the matter for a while, and at last all went out to look at the carriage, and the Herr Darius looked very carefully at the place where the box fitted on, and thought to himself: "That would be a fine Christmas present to make your sister!" He was going to Rostock on business, and could attend to the matter then.

In the evening, after supper, the Güstrow rathsherr and Parchen rathsherr talked over their city affairs: how the new fire engines were tested at Güstrow, and the city gaol repaired at Parchen, how often the streets should be swept, and how far the magistrates were justified in interfering. In such discourse, the Herr Darius had rather the disvantage of his brother-in-law, for he had a great many new ideas in his capacity of supernumerary, which the Herr Rathsherr Zarnekow, with his yearly salary, had gradually learned to dispense with. And when the two councilmen had settled all the affairs of their respective cities to their satisfaction, they went to bed, and slept the sleep of the just.

"I, for my part," said Uncle Matthias, rubbing his head, as if new ideas were sprouting there,—"I cannot help asking myself why, when the herr burmeisters have their police and fire convention every year, should not the herr rathsherrs also hold a convention? of course at the expense of the city. For ever since the time when our two herrs talked it all over between themselves the engines in Güstrow and Parchen have always been regularly tested; and the advantage is manifest."

So the Herr Rathsherr Darius went on his journey to Rostock, and after five or six days he came back, and had a great box on the back of his carriage, and his brother-in-law Zarnekow inquired: "What have you in that great box?"

The spirit of mischief suggested to the Herr Darius that here was a good chance for a joke, and he answered: "Eh, just think of it! There was a fellow in Rostock with wild beasts, and he had a giraffe which had just died; and because I thought it would please our head-master, I have brought the skin and the bones for him; for he has been trying to get up a cabinet of natural history specimens, for our high school, and I thought such a giraffe would be a good beginning. And he thought to himself: "What a surprise it will be, when they open the box out of curosity to see the giraffe, and discover the carriage-box!"

But the Herr Rathsherr Zarnekow and his women folks were not so curious about giraffes, and when the Herr Rathsherr Darius had gone off, next morning, and had taken particular care to leave the box behind him, the Herr Zarnekow passed through the entry, and saw it standing there and exclaimed: "God bless me! There has Darius gone off and forgotten his giraffe! Fika! Run out and inquire if there is any opportunity of sending to Parchen."

An opportunity was soon found, and Herr Rathsherr Zarnekow said to the carriers: "No letter is necessary. My compliments to the Herr Rathsherr Darius, and I send him his giraffe."

As the carrier drove up to the herr rathsherr's door, in Parchen, and was taking down the box from his wagon, old Bohn, the goldsmith, stood by and asked: "What is in that box?"

"A giraffe," said the carrier.

And Bohn the goldsmith told it to Freudenthaler the Jew, and Freudenthaler the Jew to Stand the distiller, and Stand the distiller to Hilgendorp the baker, and an hour had not passed before the whole city was informed that Herr Rathsherr Darius had purchased a giraffe. Meanwhile, the Rathsherr Darius was returning from the council, and as he turned into the street where he lived, old Jochen Hilgendorp was standing at his door, and said: "Good morning, herr rathsherr! Your giraffe has come."

"What the devil!" thought the rathsherr. And when he came to his own house, there was old Bohn the goldsmith, who said "Herr rathsherr, when you let the giraffe out of the box, let us see the beast!"

The herr rathsherr suspected the state of things, and when he opened the door,—sure enough!—there stood his giraffe box.

"What a blockhead of a brother-in-law!" cried he. "I wonder" give him a pleasant surprise, and he has made me a laughing-stock to all the people.—Throw the confounded thing out of the house!"

The Frau Rathsherr Darius now sent to make inquiries of the shopkeepers, if there were any opportunity of sending to Güstrow and Rostock; she had a box to send to Güstrow, and a lot of empty wine bottles to Rostock. The maid soon returned, saying: "Herr Zicharius sends his compliments, and Snakenborg the carrier is going tomorrow to Güstrow and Rostock, and if the frau rathsherr will trust him with the business; he will attend to it."

So that was settled, and as the carrier was starting off, next morning, the shopkeeper Zicharius said to him:

"Well, and the frau rathsherr's box—"

"Yes," laughed the carrier, "the box with the giraffe! I know—I know! The frau rathsherr herself told me.—A droll piece of business, Herr Zicharius!"

"Well, take good care of it, then," said the shopkeeper, and the carrier drove off.

The herr rathsherr was thoroughly vexed over his giraffe, and his poor wife had to suffer from his ill temper; but after two or three days it passed off, and the frau rathsherr was sitting one afternoon in quite content over her coffee, and saying to herself: "Thank Heaven, that unlucky business is over!"—when the door opened, and the post-boy brought in two letters, one for the herr rathsherr, and one for the frau rathsherr, both from Rostock.

The frau rathsherr opened hers, and as she glanced at it, her hands fell down in her lap, and she ejaculated: "Good Heavens! What is this?"

The wine merchant in Rostock wrote that the bottles had arrived safely; but also a box, which the carrier had asserted, contained a giraffe, and he inquired what he should do with it.

She was walking up and down the room in despair, when I—your Uncle Matthias—happened in, and she came up to me crying: "Uncle Matthias,"—for every body uncled me, even then,—"what shall I do? what shall I do?—Do you know where that miserable giraffe is now?"

"In Güstrow," said I.

"No, in Rostock," said she, and told me the whole story, saying, that if her husband should know of this new blunder, he would be perfectly wild with rage, and she would not have a moment's peace. And with that, she began to weep bitterly.

I had to turn away my face, for I could not help laughing, to save myself; but I soon controlled myself, and began to comfort her, saying: "Never mind! The giraffe shall arrive at his destination yet. I am going to Rostock, tomorrow, and if you will trust the matter to me, I will see the confounded giraffe safely delivered to the Herr Rathsherr Zarnekow, when I come back to Güstrow. Today is Tuesday, and next Friday is Christmas eve, so it will get there just in the nick of time."

Well, she was very glad, and very thankful and then the Herr Rathsherr Darius came in, and said: "Good evening." She made signs to me, not to breathe a word of it to him; and gave him his letter from Rostock. He read the letter, and when he had read it, he smote angrily on the table with his fist, and said:

"The devil take the old lawsuit! I must go to Rostock again tomorrow!"

"That is very convenient," said I. "I am going to Rostock to-morrow, also: we can travel together."

So we arranged it, and early the next morning we were sitting in our carriage, driving towards Rostock.

When we came to Güstrow, I said: "Will you not go round to your brother-in-law's, while the horses are resting?"

"No!" said herr rathsherr, getting angry with me. "My brother-in-law is a blockhead, and his women folks are not a whit better. I wanted to give him a pleasant surprise, and he has made me a laughing-stock."

"Ah!" said I, "because of the giraffe."

"Hold your tongue!" said he. "I will hear nothing more of it. My brother-in-law has the box by this time, and I shall not give him a chance to laugh at me."

We arrived at Rostock, and put up at the Sun, and had rooms close by each other, I number 8, and he number 9: and when I had looked after my little baggage, I went out to attend to my business, and in the first place I went to the wine-merchant, Ahlers.

"Good day, Ahlers," said I, for I knew him very well. "You got a box the other day from the Frau Rathsherr Darius, of Parchen?"

"Yes," said he laughing, "with the giraffe in it."

"Exactly," said I. "Send it up to me at the Sun, tomorrow morning: I am in number 8."

"All right," said he, "but if the beast were alive when he came, he must be dead by this time, for we have not fed him."

"No matter," said I, and went away.

When I came back, late in the evening, to my quarters, and was going up to my room, the waiter said: "No, sir, this way! You sleep in No. 9. The Herr Rathsherr's bed was too short for him, and he exchanged with you."

"Very well," said I, thinking no harm, "what a tall fellow he is!" And I went to bed and slept till morning.

I was sitting up, drinking my coffee, when I heard a great uproar in the passage, and as I put my head out of the door from curiosity, there was the Herr Rathsherr Darius running about, in his shirt, scolding and raving and foaming with rage; and two workmen stood by a large box, twirling their caps, and scratching their heads in perplexity.

"What is it?" said I.

"That cursed giraffe!" cried the herr rathsherr, and he sprang back into his room, and slammed the door so that the house shook.

I beckoned the workmen to bring the box into my room, made them set it down near the bed, and threw the bed clothes over it.

It was not long before the herr rathsherr came into my room, and sitting down innocently on his giraffe box began scolding these people, and everybody else. It was all a contrived plan, and he knew his friends in Parchen well enough who had managed it; but he would be even with them.

"What did you tell them to do with the box?" I asked.

"I told the fellows to throw it into the Warnow!" cried he.

"Well, make yourself easy about it then," said I, "it is probably there by this time."

Then we talked about our journey, and agreed that we must be off before daylight the next morning, for the roads were so bad with the rainy weather; and when I saw that he was going, I said—for the giraffe-story tickled me amazingly,—"Herr rathsherr," said I, "perhaps you would better sit in a chair, you might break through the cover of that box."

"What box?" cried he, springing up as if an adder had stung him.

"Oh," said I, "your giraffe box," and I pulled off the cover and was going to have a laugh over it; the stood for a moment, looking like a bull, when somebody shakes a red cloth before his eyes; then he glanced at me, and then at the box, and I thought: Now I shall have to take it!—Then he gave the box a vigorous kick. "Cursed giraffe nonsense!" and was out of the room.

But the whole day he was as shy of me as a cat of hot porridge, and treated me very distantly, and when I looked pleasantly at him he turned away, so that I said to myself: "What shall I do? He will never ride home with me tomorrow."

Besides, I had promised the frau rathsher to take the box with me to Gustrow, and if he should know that it was to be in the same carriage with himself, of course he would not go to a step. So I got the waiter to pack up the box in black waxed linen, and called our coachman, and said: "Jochen, take the box and pack it in the carriage this evening, and if the herr rathsherr asks you what is in it, tell him a new English saddle, which you are taking to Schwagel, at Mideritz."

The next morning, the herr rathsherr started with me, and as we drove slowly in the darkness, through the deep mud, he never said a word.

So we came as far as Rogun Sprenz, and stopped to give a little bread to the horses, and as we got down from the carriage, he caught sight of the black box. He was rather startled, and looked shyly at the old box, as if he had seen a goblin sitting behind the carriage, and it seemed as if he had a terror of it, and as I went on into the house, I noticed that he was asking Jochen about it. He told the saddle story, as I had instructed him, and the rathsherr was quite good-natured when he came in, and went on talking as usual afterward. But the roads were so bad, that it was the middle of the afternoon before we reached Güstrow, and there could be no thought of getting home to Parchen that night.

So we sat together at the tavern, and I said finally: "This is Christmas eve."

"Yes, it is Christmas eve," said he.

"Are you not going to see your brother-in-law?" I inquired.

"No," said he shortly.

"Well," said I, "I will go myself, then, for I am well acquainted with him, and on Christmas eve I would rather be in a pleasant family circle than to sit at a tavern." And stood up, and began to set my neck-handkerchief straight.

He did not like the idea of my going there without him, so he got up, saying: "Well, then, I will go with you, for a little while."

So we went. But I had previously said to Jochen: "About eight o'clock you are to take the black box, and put it in the hall, at the Herr Rathsherr Zarnekow's and cry out, as loud as you can: Yule rap!"

When we reached Herr Zarnekow's it was quite dark out o'doors, but the warm room was bright with candles, and the faces of the ladies and the Herr Rathsherr were bright with joy and hope, and even the Herr Rathsherr Darius grew lighter of heart. But this did not last long. Hardly had he begun to feel quite warm and comfortable, when the Herr Rathsherr Zarnekow came up to him, laying his hand on his shoulder in a friendly way, and said: "Well, my dear brother-in-law, did you get your giraffe box all right?"

The Herr Rathsherr Darius looked at him doubtfully to see what he meant, and glanced at me to see if I were laughing; but as he observed that his brother-in-law seemed perfectly honest about it, and I looked quite innocent, for I would not allow myself to laugh, he replied curtly:

"Yes, yes! It was all right." But then the ladies began to ask how the head master was pleased, and whether the creature were stuffed yet, and how large it was; and the poor rathsherr was suffering torments, and pushed his chair back and forth, and answered merely "Yes" and "No," and tore up the cigar lighters into little bits and threw them spitefully about him in the room.

But there was soon an end of his annoyance when the presents began. The frau rathsherr got a black silk gown, stiff enough to stand alone, if you should set it up in the corner, and the herr rathsherr got a dressing-gown, in which he could enjoy the most comfortable of naps, and the sister-in-law received the half of a Stuart ruff,—the other half was not yet finished,—and two-thirds of a pair of stockings,—the daughter was knitting at one of them,—a sewing-table, one leg and the top of which were still lacking. As for the daughter, she got enough to rig out two daughters from top to toe. Then a great bowl of punch was brought in, and cakes and nuts and apples, and we were all as jolly as could be. The Herr Rathsherr Zarnekow went up and down the room, and trimmed the candles, and hummed lively airs, and beckoned to me, and, laughing, whispered: "This is only the foretaste, the best is to come: I have an agreeable surprise for my women folks."

And the frau rathsherr bent over towards me, and said: "See how happy Zarnekow is! But he will be happier by and by: we are going to surprise him with a Yule-rap."

Well, it was not long, before the surprises began. "Yule-rap!" cried somebody at the door, and shoved a great package, done up in cloth, into the room. It was addressed to the herr rathsherr; he opened it, and what did he find?—A new carriage-box.

At first, the herr rathsherr's face wore rather a doubtful expression, and he looked at the ladies like a cow at a new door: but an explanation occurred to him, and he said to himself: "What rogues they are! They have spied out my present, and mean to baste me with my own drippings. A good joke," he added aloud, and laughed pleasantly. The ladies laughed too, and his sister-in-law said: "Zarnekow, you never thought of that, did you?"

"Thought of it? I never thought of it? Why who did think of it, then? I thought—"

"Yes," said she, "and we thought you had no idea of it, and it would be a surprise for you."

"For me?" asked the herr rathsherr in astonishment.

"Yes, for you," said his wife.

"This is——" began the daughter—

"Yule-rap!" was called at the door again, and just such another package was shoved in this time: "For the frau rathsherr." And what was it? Another box!

The herr rathsherr looked at the ladies, and then at me, and then at his brother-in-law, Darius, and pushed back his smoking-cap, and many said: "Well, two boxes! There is no help for it!"

"Two boxes!" cried his wife, clasping her hands in dismay: "Good gracious! Zarnekow, we thought——"

"Yes," said he, "and I thought too——" and they began to defend themselves, and defence soon became recrimination.

The Herr Rathsherr Darius was laughing in his sleeve, and he leaned over to me, saying:

"Thank God, my confounded box is on its travels,—the devil knows where,—if that should come too, the business would be complete."

"Yule-rap!" cried a voice in the hall.

"So," said I to myself, "Misfortune, take your course!" for I recognized Jochen's voice. The door opened, and my black box was brought in, with the inscription: "To the Herr Rathsherr, and the Frau Rathsherr Zarnekow;" for I had got it ready myself.

Scarcely had the Herr Rathsherr Darius seen the black box, when he sprang up and ran towards it: he looked at it with an expression which was far from amiable; one would have thought he was suffering from the toothache, and supposed the box to be filled with instruments for extracting teeth: he looked at it, as if he were ready to do battle with whatever might be confined there. "Why this is—this is—" and he looked at me suspiciously.

"Addressed to me and my wife," said Herr Zarnekow, and he began to cut off the black cover. But the moment the box, with its marks, came to light, the Herr Rathsherr Darius pushed aside the Herr Rathsherr Zarnekow, and seating himself quickly on the box cover, spread his coat tails over it. "It is a mistake!" he shouted, "It is a mistake! This is a saddle for Schragel, at Mideritz."

"No!" said the Herr Rathsherr Zarnekow: "No!" said the frau rathsherr; "No!" said the other two ladies, and "No!" said I, likewise; "He is only joking." He was dragged off the box, amid great laughter and jesting, and as the marks appeared, the Herr Rathsherr Zarnekow cried:

"Why, good heavens! Darius, this is your giraffe box!"

"Cursed box!" shouted the herr rathsherr. "Let me out! Let me out! I want to go home!"

But the ladies stood between him and the door, laughing and protesting: What if it

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 24, 1875.

THE DAY.

We wish all our readers a Merry Christmas.

A communication from "Civis" is necessarily postponed.

President Grant characterizes as wholly malicious the rumor that he had expressed a willingness to consider an application for pardoning Joyce, the convicted whiskey swindler.

The regular quarterly meeting of the town superintendents will be held at the office of the commissioner of public schools adjourned to Thursday, December 30th, 1875 at 10 o'clock.

At a dinner of the New England Society of Washington on Forefathers' Day, Post-master-General Jewell made an address especially complimentary to New England. The day was appropriately celebrated at Plymouth, Mass., and in Charleston, South Carolina.

The reported revolution in Sonora, Mexico, is confirmed, and Sinaloa is about to be invaded. The insurgents have crossed into Arizona and Lower California, attacking San Rafael, killing the governor and twenty nine others, and have possession of everything.

The committee examining the Providence Tool Company's affairs recommend an extension covering thirty six months, from January 1, with equal semi-annual payments, beginning next July, with interest semi-annually at seven per cent. The assets of the company are $4,145,000 and the liabilities $2,709,007.

The thirty first annual meeting of the Massachusetts teachers' association will be December 28, 29 and 30 in the girls' high and normal school building, West Newton street, Boston. On Wednesday afternoon Col. Higginson will deliver an address on "Common Sense in Teaching History." On Thursday morning A. D. Small of Salem will read a paper on "The Relation of the Grammar School to the High School, and the Principles Governing Promotion from One into the Other."

Father Grace's parishioners met last night and expressed their approval of his course. That they approve it is very fortunate, for if they didn't approve it it would be competent for the priest to refuse them the sacraments while living and burial when dead. The parish can't get rid of the priest without appealing to the bishop, and in such an appeal laymen would be at a great disadvantage compared with a priest. No layman would dare arraign either his priest or his bishop in a court of law unless he was anxious to be excommunicated. It is very fortunate that the parish agrees with the priest for it wouldn't do any good to disagree with him.

The Newport correspondent of the New York Herald has been severely criticised by some of our Catholic citizens for his course in the DeFray matter. Such criticisms are unjust. The statements of the DeFray family may be untrue, but they constitute a prima facie case, and their publication as a matter of news was perfectly proper. No obstacle has been put in the way of Father Grace's publishing his statement as widely as the statement of his parishioner. If a man is credibly charged with crime that fact is a matter of news whether the man is innocent or guilty, and if a priest is charged formally and upon oath of refusing to bury a child because it had attended a public school that is a matter of news,—of very important news. Of course if the Catholic church were in power here as it is or very lately was in some European countries no paper would dare publish anything adverse to the church or its ministers, but here Catholics can not complain of the publication of Mr. De Fray's statement if Father Grace's statement if also published.

OUR GORGON.

According to ancient fable there was once upon a time a creature called a Gorgon that turned all who looked upon it into stone. And this generally discredited story has been revived in the United States in the year of our Lord 1875 by Bishop Haven of the Methodist Episcopal church who has discovered a creature so potent, so awful, that it turns all who look in other directions than it looks into dust. The bishop spoke in Boston with his overcoat on, as he tells us, and standing, and therefore not ex cathedra, but now with his episcopal overcoat hanging on its episcopal peg he writes to the Independent, ex cathedra, of course as follows:—

"Chase and Greeley and Sumner and Wilson are towering warnings to the American people how they consider the work of renewing the land accomplished, and set themselves against him whom God hath selected for this renewal."

Now there is a good deal of valuable information in this. Life insurance companies will do well to examine into a man's politics, and every one who wishes to live long in the land should hasten to make his peace with Grant. But the bishop is more specific. He says,—

"Had Wilson thrown his mighty influence on the President; had he cordially supported the reconstruction measures still needed to insure liberty and safety to our land and to the late and not yet freed slave; had he helped pass the 'force bill' and the education bill and the marriage bill, and other bills necessary to secure equal rights to all, he would have been alive today. But he put himself against these demands of God and the hour; and was not, for God took him."

A few days ago the bishop was asking for prayers for the President's reelection, but it strikes us that this is wholly unnecessary. His excellency U. S. Grant is represented now as the vicegerent of God on earth, and it seems hardly necessary to pray for any man who is so completely under the divine protection that speedy death awaits every one who resists his will. The President desires authority to declare martial law in five Southern states. He is resisted, and not only do those who support his views get fat offices, but those who resist are soon gathered unto their fathers.

The President desired to overturn civil government in Arkansas for the sufficient reason that the Democrats carried an election, and Judge Poland ought to be in poor health by this time. We warn him that if Chase, and Sumner, and Greeley and Wilson escaped not the fatal wrath of the President he will fare no better. Mr. Wilson was not heart and soul in favor of miscegenation, and he sleeps in Dell Park cemetery.

Bishop Haven overlooks the San Domingo matter, but it is not at all certain that this had no influence in aggravating Mr. Sumner's angina pectoris to the fatal point. But however this may be, the warning is obvious. It is possible that the President desires a third term. If so it will be difficult to find a candidate to run against him with an open grave staring him in the face. It is true Mr. Seymour is still living, but Mr. Greeley is dead and this proves that wrath only awaits the rivals and opponents of President Grant.

There are many persons who should take heed to the bishop's warning's though their blood may now course swiftly through their veins and the bloom of health be on their cheeks. There is Sam Bowles, whom Bishop Haven must regard as a spared monument of divine mercy, and Whitelaw Reid, who is too bad perhaps to be taken away, and Murat Halstead who should make no plans for the morrow. And in Boston there is a man who spells his name E. D. Winslow who criticised the expenses of the President and his friends for wines and cigars last June. Let him remember that even the bears avenge bald headed men.

What the bishop says about Mr. Wilson is sad enough but it is comforting to know that though he is not it is "because God took him." This is more than a matter of opinion for Bishop Haven speaks of the action of Divinity with all the assurance of one who knows. And this reminds us that there seems to be no great mortality among the Democrats on account of opposition to the President. Chase, Greeley, Sumner and Wilson were all Republicans. Do we understand the bishop to say that these pretty good men were punished like Moses by being taken away a little earlier than might have been expected, while for the wicked Democrats something more severe is reserved?

Bishop Haven intimated that he lost $10 by making that speech at the Boston preachers' meeting instead of sending his views to some newspaper for publication. Ten dollars! The bishop's modesty is incredible. Had the Independent paid $1000 for this last letter it would have secured a bargain. The information the bishop gives is worth millions to Americans who are not quite ready to die, and who as between Grant and the grave would promptly choose the former.

A QUAKER'S CHRISTMAS EVE.

How slow and soft the snow-dress falls
Upon the vine-deserted walls,
As if some gracious soul, intent
Upon the one sweet deed it meant,
Since in its grace such bounty lay,
Should wrap each bare thing on the way,
Till all things white and whiter grow,
Except the shadows Earth must throw.
The tender gray, the peaceful white,
A Quaker setting make tonight;
And so thus moonshine, which is shade
Only a little lighter laid,
Into my heart still mood has crept,
With such a glow its sunrise kept
When youth and Benjamin were mine.
Ah! swift the slowest years decline,
And sunrise has no story now
To move me like the night and snow.

If those unquiet bells would cease
Clashing their peals across this peace,
It seems the hour's rare stillentness
E'en worldly hearts might chide and bless,
And lift the lowest heavenward
To greet the birthday of the Lord.
I cannot think the loudest bells
Can utter what a pure voice tells;
The Spirit needs no brazen tone
To whisper triumph to his own;
The blessed healing falls to them
Who touch unseen the garment's hem;
And hidden deeds are wafted higher
Than chanting of an angel choir.
Hosanna still the mad lips cry,
While still the mad hands crucify;
But angels watch and women weep,
And theirs the rising after sleep.

How careth he for Christmas song
To whom all days and songs belong:
Only an ebbing love has need
Its hightide reachings thus to heed.
Always the willing angels sing
To worn-out workers listening;
Always our Christ is in the earth,
Always his love has human birth—
In joy that crowns our later morn
As in Judean Christmas born.

And yet I mind how every year,
When my ripe birthdays draw anear,
Dear Ruth, from out her prayer life,
With worldly hope and wisdom rife,
Comes to the quiet nest once more,
Bringing the smile her father wore,
And little gracious gifts, to tell
She keeps by some high miracle
The simple heart 'neath costly lace,
That needs a double grant of grace.
Though all the year Ruth's tender eyes
To mine are openings of the skies,
Though love unsaid be lose complete,
I find the special service sweet,

And so, perhaps, these louder chimes,
Smoothing the prose-told hours to rhymes,
Like some rare voice God sets to sound
The jarring ones of shriller sound;
These spires with grand and silly art,
Climbing to reach the central heart;
These broken lights, and the rush
Of feet where leading angels hush—
May be to clearer eyes than mine
Fresh spellings of a tale divine.
And he whose birthday knew no bliss
Except a woman's troubled kiss,
May still forgive the foolish art,
And hide the meaning in his heart.

NO FOOLING AROUND HER.—"May I sit here, madam?" inquired a spruce looking young man of an elderly woman, on the cars, between Chicago and Milwaukee, the other day, pointing to the vacant seat at her side.

"Wal, I s'pose so," replied the old lady, reluctantly; "but look here, young man," she continued, "I know who ye are—ye're one of them store 'drummers,' but ye might as well know that I hain't goin' to have any on yer winkin', and blinkin', and love makin' 'round me!"

And she emphasized her remark by a vigorous crash of her umbrella on the arm of the seat.

The young man concluded to sit on the wood box by the stove.—[Chicago Journal.

For the Middle and Eastern states, cold northeast winds, increasing and brisk, partly cloudy and clear weather. Cautionary signals are ordered for the middle Atlantic and southern New England coast.

LOCAL AFFAIRS.

—There will be no DAILY NEWS tomorrow.

—Thames street was crowded last evening.

—The storm signal was ordered up this morning.

—No school today and the children have a double Christmas.

—The schooners Twilight and Tidal Wave are to be laid up here.

—William S. Bryer drew the $75 harness at the raffle.

—The drama "Driven from Home" or the Christmas Curse will be given at the Opera House tomorrow afternoon and evening.

—The post office will be open tomorrow from 7 to 10:30 A. M. and from 6 to 8 P. M. The lobby will be open from 7 A. M. to 9 P. M.

—Father Clinton, assistant priest at St. Mary's, is confined to the house by a severe cold caught last Sunday while visiting St. Mary's mission at the coal mines.

—Two cases of small pox are reported at Fort Adams. One patient is a sergeant, and the other the child of a private. It is believed that the disease was caught on the transport on which the troops came north.

—The schooner Prudence, of and for New York from Bristol, which was run into yesterday morning by the steamer Newport, was injured more than was at first supposed. Her jibboom was carried away.

—At a quarter to two this afternoon an alarm of fire was raised on account of a chimney fire in the house on Church street formerly occupied by the Rev. Mr. Barrows and now by J. H. Jordan. It was promptly extinguished without the aid of the fire department.

—The lecture last evening by Miss Zelia M. Ball at the Union Congregational church was a clear and interesting presentation of the necessity of the exercise of the highest morality in governments, in institutions of education and reform, and by individuals. The sale will close this evening with a musical and literary social.

—Yesterday afternoon Rhode Island Lodge, No. 12, I. O. of O. F., numbering about seventy members under command of Marshal H. T. Easton, attended the funeral of Henry O. Howard, and performed funeral rites at the cemetery. The remains were deposited in the vault, and are to be sent to Boston.

A SCHOONER RUNS INTO THE NINA.—This morning quite a serious collision occurred in the inner harbor. While getting under weigh the schooner W. O. Irish misstayed and ran into the United States gun boat Nina, lying at her wharf, crushing in her rail, ruining the davits of one of the boats, cutting into the house, breaking the skylight of the engine room and doing other damage on the starboard side amounting in all to about $300. The schooner lost her head gear. Of course all responsibility for the accident rests on her. As reported in the News yesterday she arrived here with her chains and anchors lost, and her mainmail split. She is bound for Long Island to be laid up for the Winter.

A NEW G. A. R. POST.—Charles E. Lawton Post, No. 5, G. A. R., was organized last evening, and the following officers were elected: Commander, Andrew McMahon, Senior Vice Commander, Overton G. Langley, Junior Vice Commander, David Coggeshall, Jr., Surgeon, James H. Taylor, Adjutant, Fred. A. Chapin, Officer of the Day, William P. Denman, Officer of the Guard, Perry B. Dawley, Sergeant Major, Joseph Beaumont, Quartermaster Sergeant, John Ramsden, delegate to the department encampment at Providence next month, William A. Stedman, alternate, John B. Durfee. The post was mustered by Comrade Sherman of Slocum Post, No. 10 of Providence assisted by Comrade Curtis of Stevens post, No. 2 of this city. There was a supper at Ramsden's after the organizatson. Commander Hunter of Stevens post visited the new post and was received with the customary honors.

ZION CHURCH.

This church has been very elaborately dressed this year for Christmas and presents an exceedingly beautiful appearance.

The services this evening (Christmas eve) and tomorrow will be very attractive. The choir which has been increased by an additional quartette of picked voices will make the music an important feature in both services. There will be service tonight at eight o'clock and tomorrow morning at eleven. The rector will preach at the morning service. The public are cordially invited to both services.

On Sunday there will be divine service at half past ten and the usual children's service in the afternoon at half past three. Next Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock the children of the Sunday school will celebrate the Christmas festival with a Christmas tree in the church, and on Saturday (New Year's day) the industrial school of the parish comprising nearly one hundred children will have a Christmas tree in the chapel when an address is expected from the bishop of the diocese.

The musical programme for the Christmas services will be as follows:

THE GRACE—DEFRAY CONTROVERSY.

FATHER GRACE'S PARISHIONERS HOLD A MEETING AND EXPRESS THEIR APPROVAL OF FATHER GRACE AND THEIR DISAPPROVAL OF MEDDLING REPORTERS.

Last evening a large number of the male members of St. Mary's church met at St. Mary's hall and held an indignation meeting at which they expressed their confidence in their pastor and denied the charges brought against him by the New York Herald and the DeFray family.

Michael Butler was elected chairman and Thomas E. Shea, secretary.

The heading of a Newport despatch to the Herald "Priestly Intolerance," was the special aggravation on account of which the meeting was called. The Herald reporter was present and was promptly called for by Mr. Butler for an explanation of the obnoxious article and its heading. He replied that he did his duty fearlessly knowing that the Herald wanted the news. He refused to say from whom he received information about Father Grace's refusal to officiate at the funeral of the child. He also informed the meeting that Father Grace had told him that if he would publish his (Father Grace's) statement of the case he would be satisfied. This statement was published but following it was one by Mrs. DeFray giving her version of the case. Finally the Herald reporter offered to stay and report the meeting, or go out, if desired. Cries of "No! No!" were heard and it was unanimously voted that he could remain.

The following resolutions were then read and adopted, a copy of them, on motion of Michael Sheehan, being furnished to the Herald reporter.

In view of the fact that a question of discipline has arisen between the pastor of this congregation and one of his parishioners in regard to the burial of a child of said parishioner, which question from its very nature should have been left for settlement between the parties immediately concerned, and

WHEREAS, following and relative to said question certain statements have appeared in the public papers purporting to come from a correspondent of those papers, and

WHEREAS, either through malice or ignorance of the facts of the case these statements seek to reflect discredit upon our pastor and accuse him of priestly intolerance, and

WHEREAS, The true point of issue appears to have been perverted and our pastor's attitude in the affair twisted into an attack upon the public schools of this city, and

WHEREAS, We are assured by our pastor that to charge him with being an enemy to public school instruction is to unduly lie, and

WHEREAS, We are aware of the position of our pastor upon the school question and know that such position is based upon just principles and supported by sound reason, therefore

Resolved, That the members of this congregation have full confidence in the ability and disposition of their pastor to conduct the affairs of this parish.

Resolved, That we are in favor of justice to every member of this congregation, and feel sure that it will be rendered to all by the appointed head of this parish, the Rev. Fr. Grace.

Resolved, That while we disclaim any wish on our part to curtail the just liberty of the press, still we protest against the prying into private affairs by its so called representatives and the starting of a scandal the responsibility of which they seek to shift on to other shoulders.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be presented to our pastor, and that they be printed in the public papers of the city and in the Providence Journal.

Resolved, That we resent the calumny which charges our pastor with priestly intolerance and deprecate the uncharitableness which prompted its expression.

Resolved, That the thanks of this congregation are due to the Providence Journal and its gentlemanly reporter for the care taken to present the facts to the public.

The meeting then adjourned.

PERSONALS.

.....A sheriff's jury has decided that Fox, the actor, is hopelessly insane.

.....Mr. Henry W. Halleck has given a marble bust of his father, Major General Halleck, to the society of California Pioneers.

.....Mr. John D. Young, who formerly represented the ninth Congressional district of Kentucky, is now a doorkeeper's messenger.

.....A Chicago overseer of the poor, with fine aesthetic tastes, has provided nothing but colored striped stockings for distribution among indigent women this Winter.

....."Mr. Scott's committee" is what they call Speaker Kerr's committee on railways. Eight of its members are known to be in favor of subsidizing the Texas Pacific road.

.....The New York Commercial Advertiser says the judiciary committee has for its chairman "a second rate pettifogger and a first rate clown."

.....MacDougal of New York, who voted no on the anti-third-term resolution, explains his vote in this wise, upon being twitted by leading Republican Senators and members: "My constituents don't send me here to elect a President, and I consider that Congress has as much to do with electing a President as a Methodist conference."

.....Major O. H. Howard of the 5th United States artillery, stationed at Fort Trumbull, New London, has been missing some days. He had a government draft of $1100 with him when last seen and is largely indebted to various persons on his own and government account, it is said.

.....A man in Lancaster, N. H., who has made application for a life insurance policy, in answer to a question in reference to his ancestors, replied that his grandfather on his father's side died at the age of 110, and his grandfather at 95; on his mother's side his grandfather was 100 and his grandmother 98. His mother is living, aged 105 years, and his father died at 103 years. He has eight brothers and sisters, whose ages ranged from 45 to 70 years, six of whom are living.

.....Mr. Blaine seems to have been the fortunate speaker at the Philadelphia banquet, and he fared better than any other presidential candidate present. President Grant was received with a plentiful lack of enthusiasm; Morton was scarcely heard; but Blaine was the favorite from the start, and set the tables in a roar by a humorous speech. Score one for Mr. Blaine.—[Boston Herald.

.....The Scotch earldom of Breadalbane has been awaiting an heir for several years since the death of the late earl, who left no child. The estate involved is one of the largest in Scotland, yielding a rental of $500,000 per year. The legal heir has been found in the person of Peter Campbell, a young farmer of St. George, New Brunswick, 30 years of age, who has gone to Scotland to assume the position which now belongs to him.

.....William Alston Hayne, a son of Hayne, Webster's antagonist, sits in the California legislature for Santa Barbara and Ventura. He is fifty four years old, and describes himself as "a Democrat of the old school." Mr. Hayne sat in the legislature of South Carolina just before the passage of the act of secession, and went to California in 1867.

.....A man whom Dr. Chalmers engaged to manage a disorderly Sunday school kept his eyes wide open during prayer, and when one boy thrust a pin into another, he marched up the aisle, still praying, and cuffed that boy's ears, and went back again praying all the way. After that he was master of the situation, for the boys thought that a man who could watch and pray like that, could not be put down.

.....In his early life Ex-Speaker Blaine was a professor of mathematics in Drennon College, Ky., and at the time General Bushrod Johnson, now at the head of the Military Institute, Nashville, Tenn., was a professor in the same institution. A number of citizens of Tennessee, educated at Drennon, still have diplomas of graduation with the signatures of Messrs. Blaine and Johnson attached.

....."How is it," asked Bishop Wilberforce of one of his Roman Catholic servant girls, "that you can feel so kindly disposed toward me, when you believe that I shall certainly be lost?" "Oh, no!" said she. "But how can I be saved," persisted the bishop, "when your church teaches that there is no salvation out of its pale?" "You will be saved through your invincible ignorance," was the reply.

A Health-Promoting Stimulant.

Physicians, who certainly ought to be the best judges of such matters, declare that wholesome stimulation is not only desirable, but essential in many instances. When the temporary good effect of a sound stimulant is confirmed and rendered permanent, as in the case of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, by the action of tonic and alterative principles combined with it, it becomes infinitely more efficacious as a renovant of physical energy and a corrective of those conditions of the body which invite disease. The Bitters have received the emphatic sanction of medical men who have observed the effect of that popular stimulative cordial as a remedy for weakness, nervousness, dyspepsia, constipation, inactivity of the liver, malarious fevers, and many other disorders. Its basis is sound old rye, the purest liquor known to commerce, and itself possessing tonic properties of no mean order. dec22-n&l

SCHENCK'S MANDRAKE PILLS

Will be found to possess those qualities necessary to the total eradication of all bilious attacks, prompt to start the secretions of the liver, and give a healthy tone to the entire system. Indeed, it is no ordinary discovery in medical science to have invented a remedy for these stubborn complaints, which develop all the results produced by a heretofore free use of calomel, a mineral justly dreaded by mankind, and acknowledged to be destructive in the extreme to the human system. That the properties of certain vegetables comprise all the virtues of calomel without its injurious tendencies, is now an admitted fact, rendered indisputable by scientific researches; and those who use the Mandrake Pills will be fully satisfied that the best medicines are those provided by nature in the common herbs and roots of the fields.
These pills open the bowels and correct all bilious derangements without salivation or any of the injurious effect of calomel or other poisons. The secretion of bile is promoted by these pills, as will be seen by the altered color of the stools, and disappearing of the sallow complexion and cleansing of the tongue.
Ample directions for use accompany each box of pills.
Prepared only by J. H. Schenck & Son, at their principal office, corner Ninth and Arch Streets, Philadelphia, and for sale by all druggists and dealers. Price 25 cents per box. dec6 tu

Books are always acceptable, to big folks and little folks, to those who can read the biggest "dictionary words" and those who can read only the pictures in them.

And it is in hard times especially, that "books are the best presents."

There is nothing else in which five dollars can be made wisely to go so far. It has cost, perhaps, a thousand dollars, at the start, to make the book you get for half the five, and how very comfortable it is! give a thousand dollars' worth, that costs you only three.

GENERAL NEWS.

FROM NEW YORK.

Judgments Against Duncan, Sherman & Co.

NEW YORK, Dec. 23.

The following judgments have been obtained by depositors in the bank of Duncan, Sherman & Co., and were filed today: Union Bank of Halifax, judgment for $35,-355 56, and Ignatio Mariseal, $13,223 62.

The Tweed Jury Selected.

Ex-Judge Peabody and Mr. Babcock, the elisors selected by counsel in the civil suits against Tweed to draw jurors, drew 43 names from the jury list this evening in the suit for $1,000,000 against the defendant. The counsel for Tweed interposed the former objection that the names should be selected from the entire list of those liable to jury duty in the city, and not from partial lists handed to the county clerk by the commissioner of jurors, from time to time, for the use of the courts and which lists are under 7000, whereas 20,000 are liable for jury duty. The elisors selected forty-eight names and the defendant's counsel declining the privilege of striking off twenty four alternately with the people's counsel, the elisors did that duty. The case comes for trial [at the next term.

The Tweed Jury.

The names of the Tweed struck jury, twenty four in number, are as follows: Messrs. George R. Bend, Abner W. Colgate, John J. Cisco, Samuel D. Davis, Wm. P. Douglas, Amos R. Eno, Joseph S. Lawrey, John H. Caswell, Ezra M. Kingsley, Richard Arnold, Charles Collins, Robert K. Davis, John Taylor Johnson, Emil Olberton, Julius W. Catlin, Levi P. Martin, Gordon Norrie, Arthur J. Peabody, George Cabot Ward, Francis B. Thurber, Anson G. P. Stokes, Robert Lennox Kennedy and Peleg Hill.

MISCELLANEOUS.

A SHAMEFUL FRAUD.

A Bogus Company Fail with $180,-000 Liabilities and no Assets.

BOSTON, Dec. 23.

Some six months ago, a company organized at Hingham, Mass., under the name of the Hingham Manufacturing Co., elected officers, and made affidavits before a justice of the peace, that the capital stock, $100,000, was all paid and in the hands of the treasurer. On these representations, the company obtained ready credit at the banks, and for the purchase of materials, &c. Everything went on swimmingly till quite recently, when the company went into bankruptcy with liabilities of $180,000 and no assets, $150,000 of the liabilities being in notes. Upon investigation, it appears that not one dollar of capital was ever paid in, and the money obtained on the notes was used by the officers and directors for private purposes. Charles M. Strauss, clerk of the company, was today indicted for perjury in making an affidavit as to the capital, and several other officers of the company will probably be similarly served.

EARTHQUAKE.

Another Earthquake on the James.

RICHMOND, Dec. 22.

A shock supposed to be an earthquake, occurred here at 11:40 P. M., lasted about 10 seconds and was felt all over the city. The shock was quite severe, shaking buildings and causing many people to rush into the streets to ascertain the cause.

A Possible Explanation.

RICHMOND, Dec. 23.

Many persons attribute the shock of earthquake to the explosion of the Clover Hill coal mines, thirteen miles south of Richmond. If such is the case, the explosion must have been an extraordinary one to have been so perceptibly felt here.

The Shock Extends Through the North and South.

RICHMOND, Dec. 23.

Shocks of earthquake were felt last night along the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad as far as Stanton, one hundred and thirty miles northwest of Richmond and Danville Railroad to the southern border of the state. No damage worth mentioning is reported.

Further Reports of the Earthquake.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 23.

The residents in South Washington represent that between 11 and 12 o'clock last night, they sensibly felt the shock of an earthquake. A dispatch from Gordonsville, Va., dated to-day says: "There was a heavy shock of earthquake here last night at 11:50. It jarred windows and houses, and lasted fully three seconds.

THE MEXICAN TROUBLES.

Sonora in a State of Revolution.—The Camp Bandits Still Threatening the Place.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 23.

A dispatch from San Diego confirmed the report of anarchy in Sonora, Mexico. A revolution is in progress, and the Yaqui Indians are in revolt. Governor Pesquiera has levied a special tax to carry on the war. The revolutionary party are reported about to invade Sinaloa. Business is prostrated. No further demonstrations have been made by the banditti at Campo. The presence of a posse from San Diego keeps them temporarily quiet, but they threaten to take revenge for the shooting and hanging of their comrades in the recent raid. Cruz Lopez has been in command of the banditti since the death of Chavez. The Mexicans living on the border, with but few exceptions, are in league with the banditti. A cavalry company will leave here tomorrow for San Diego.

Advices from the Texas Border.

GALVESTON, Dec. 23.

Advices from Brownsville state that at the meeting called by Mayor Parker, a committee was appointed to draw up a memorial to Governor Cook, representing the condition on the border and to urge the continuance of Captain McNally's command in service, and asking that it be increased to two hundred men. They nominated Col. John L. Haynes, Capt. L. McNally and Col. John S. Ford delegates to Washington to represent frontier matters to the national authorities.

Rumored Commencement of War at San Diego.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 23.

A dispatch from San Diego says a courier has arrived from San Rafael, the capital of lower California, who reports that the revolutionists had attacked the place and killed Gov. Villagrana and twenty nine others, and had possession of everything. The report needs confirmation, but it is considered highly probable by those familiar with affairs in the country.

The Above Reports Confirmed.

SAN FRANCISCO, Dec. 23.

A dispatch from Tucson confirms the previous reports as to the movements of the revolutionists, and the state troops of Sonora (a portion of Pesquiera's forces) have entered Arizona. General Kautze, this afternoon, telegraphed that he has been ordered to compel Serna to surrender. He had ordered three companies of cavalry from Camps Grant and Lowell to carry out the orders. Governor Safford will leave immediately for Sonora. A line dispatch from San Diego says, "Nothing further is yet heard from San Rafael."

NEWS ITEMS.

They do do some things better in France; vide the following neat way of putting it, from a Parisian paper: "The princess de M. is to retire from society for a little while, and is buying edgings, insertions, muslins, and so on, which she is making up into little garments, too large for a doll and too small for herself."

The Boston Transcript credits the rebellion with the making of such monsters as Thompson, and shows its reconciliatory spirit in the following graceful rhetoric: —"In the lurid light of this iniquity, plotted by an ex-blockade runner and Southern sympathizers during our civil war, arise the fearful half-mythical, half-forgotten shapes of those other kindred devices for wholesale and barbarous destruction of innocent lives —the burning of New York hotels, the selling to Northern cities of fever and small-pox infected clothing, and the poisoning of public water supplies. What seemed too basely cruel for human action is now seen to be possible to such familiars of the evil one as flocked to the succor of battle for human slavery."

The postal service is divided as follows: Railroad routes: Length, 70,083 miles; annual transportation, $75,154,910 miles; annual cost, $6,126,518—about 12.56 cents per mile. Steamboat routes: Length, 15,-788 miles, annual transportation, 3,958,812; annual cost, $684,130—about 17.28 cents per mile. Other routes upon which the mails are required to be conveyed with "celerity, certainty, and security." Length, 102,602 miles; annual transportation, 51708,-451 miles; annual cost, $5,452,721—about 9.96 cents per mile.

There is an increase over the preceding year in length of routes of 8,476 miles; in annual transportation, of 5,194,740 miles; and a decrease in cost of $48,688. Adding the increased cost for railway postoffice clerks, route, local and other agents, $149,-809, the total increase in cost was $161,211. The railroad routes have been increased in length 2,349 miles, and in cost $626,855, against an increase last year of 4,277 miles in length, and $1,333,467 in cost.

FRIDAY, DECEMBER 24, 1875.

FIRE ALARM REGULATIONS.

To send out an alarm.

Any person who discovers a fire is requested to immediately give the alarm by crying fire, and, going to the box nearest the fire, to send out a general alarm by procuring the key, unlocking the box, and firmly pulling the hook down, once only, then closing the door, being careful to see that it is locked, and returning the key.

The person sending out an alarm from a box is requested to remain near said box until the first engine arrives, to direct the firemen to the exact locality of the fire.

Cautions.

Never pull a box if the small gong inside is striking or the machinery of the box is heard running.

Do not pull a box for a fire seen at a distance, or unless you are aware of the locality of a fire.

Key holders are requested not to allow their keys to be taken except by responsible parties.

Bell Ringers.

Bell ringers are engaged to ring the following church bells in connection with the telegraph alarm:—

The First and North Baptist, United Congregational and Emmanuel with instructions to ring their respective bells for five minutes immediately after the telegraphic alarm has completed its four rounds and then to repeat eight times the number of the box from which the alarm is sent.

Recall.

Nine blows upon the telegraphic alarm bells will indicate that the fire is out and that the services of the department are not required.

Testing the Apparatus.

One stroke on the bells by the telegraphic alarm will simply indicate that the apparatus is in good order.

LOCATION OF BOXES AND KEYS.

Box No. 2.—On Lysander Stevens's house, Thames street, opposite Bridge street.

Keys at Lysander Stevens's and Daniel C. Denham's.

Box No. 3.—Mrs. Sylvanus Wilbour's house, corner of Touro and Spring streets.

Keys at Harwood E. Read's and C. T. Dubbs's.

Box No. 4.—Downing's Block on Downing street near Bellevue avenue.

Keys at George T. Downing's, Bellevue avenue, Enos Hayward's Downing street and William A. Williams's, Downing Block.

Box No. 5.—On J. T. Burdick & Co's store, corner of Thames street and Brown & Howard's wharf.

Keys at J. T. Burdick & Co's store, C. H. Burdick's, Thames street and Thomas Chambers's, corner Brown & Howard's wharf.

Keys also in the hands of the firewards, city marshal and all the members of the police force. nov2

No fractions of cents to be introduced in an order. United States Treasury Notes or National Bank Notes only received or paid.

Fee for registering letters of any value 10 cents.

[Concluded from first page.]

had come out that the present was from him; it was still a surprise for them, for they did not know what was in the box.

The Herr Rathsherr Darius threw himself in silent rage, into the sofa corner, and with a grim laugh, he muttered: "Well, well! Take your surprise then! I have had enough of the kind! And as for you,"—turning savagely upon me,—"you may go home alone, tomorrow! Not another step will I ride with you!"

So the box was opened, and out came?—A new carriage box. Bless me! what a face the Herr Rathsherr Zarnekow had, and how the rest of the family looked!

The Herr Rathsherr Darius had got into a spiteful mood, and laughed loudly, "Do you see, Zarnekow, you blockhead! You made me the sport of all Parchen, sending the box after me; now you have your giraffe! You see, Zarnekow, it never rains but it pours! You see, Zarnekow, now let us put them all three in a row, and you can take a good look at your presents! It is a pity you hadn't another, and then you could each have your own private box!" But he turned pale with terror, as the door opened again.

The Herr Rathsherr Zarnekow's coachman, Friedrich, came in, with something on his shoulder, and said: "Herr Rathsherr, I have a pleasant surprise for you, too, this Christmas eve,—our old box has been found. Here it is!" And he set the fourth box down on the floor.

"And now, my son," added Uncle Matthias, when he had told the story, "you have a specimen of pleasant surprises; now make the application, and tell what you were going to surprise your mother with."

I opened my package, and exhibited a pair of spectacles.

"Oh!" said he. "Spectacles! what made you think of them?"

"Well," said I, "we were sitting round the table the other evening, and mother was trying to thread her needle and it wouldn't go, and she got vexed over it, and said: 'I shall certainly have to buy a pair of spectacles,'—and so I thought of it."

"Well, wait a moment," said my uncle; and he called my sister Lizette and asked: "Lizette, what are you going to give mother?"

"You mustn't tell, uncle," said she. "A pair of spectacles."

"And you, August?"

August was a stout, ruddy youth, and used to stammer dreadfully, and when he was embarrassed, or taken by surprise, he couldn't get out a word. He could sing, however, and Uncle Matthias had instructed him that under such circumstances he might sing his reply. August put on a broad smile, and began to stammer. "Sing, child!" said Uncle Matthias, and August sang, in a fine, clear voice, to the tune of the Maiden's Wreath:

"I'll give my mother some spectacles,
With a blue ribbon tied."

"That will do, my son," said Uncle Matthias, and turned to me again: "What do you say, now?"

A Brighton lady, riding on the cars the other day, was amused by the question of a little girl, who, hearing the conductor cry the stations, looked up into her mother's face and innocently asked: "Say, mamma, do we get out at the next holler?"

REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD PREFER TO INSURE WITH THE OLD INSURANCE CO. OF NORTH AMERICA. PHILADELPHIA.

1. It is the Oldest Insurance Company in America,—having commenced business in 1794—and therefore entitled to your confidence on the score of Stability.

2. It has done a successful business for eighty years, thereby demonstrating the ability of its management.

3. It has uniformly maintained during its long career, the Highest Reputation for Integrity and Honorable Dealing, justifying thereby, full faith that your rights will receive fair and liberal protection.

4. It has paid Losses in cash, exceeding Thirty Million Dollars, without the deduction of a cent, or a day's delay—a sufficient evidence of the Wealth of its Resources, as well as disposition to meet promptly all liabilities.

5. It has a Cash Capital and Surplus of over $4,700,000, securely invested—an ample GUARANTEE AGAINST DISASTER, in the event of unusual and extraordinary losses, which have often swept away companies of limited means.

6. It insures all the better classes of property on Liberal Terms, for long or short periods, and settles all honest claims for losses, Promptly and Equitably, at the Agency where the Insurance is effected—observing in all its business relations, the Golden Rule.

Notice Extraordinary. THE UNDERSIGNED returns thanks to his many customers for their patronage in the past and hopes for a continuance of their favors in the future, pledging himself in return to give them just as good (if not a little better) work in all branches of his business entrusted to his care.

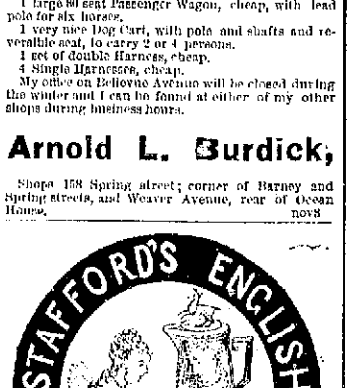

To my friends who have forgotten their accounts of long standing—some as long ago as 1867—if they will now call and settle their bill before the new year, their short coming will be forgiven and their future orders will be as promptly executed as heretofore.

I do all branches of Painting and Glazing, and such work as Tinting Walls and Ceilings, Graining and Marbling, Wood Filling, Shellacing, Lettering, Scrolling, Gilding, Smalting, Kalsomining, Paper Hanging; also Carriage Painting in all its various styles. I have also in my store room the following vehicles, all in good order and ready for use, which I will sell cheap for cash or good paper, viz:

For Cleaning Gold, Silver and Ware This Polish has no equal. Everybody lacking the Silver ware to clean, asks Stafford's Polish to clean their lamp chimneys. For this purpose alone it is desirable that everybody should keep it constantly in their possession.

The ladies all say they have not half the trouble to clean off the smoke and grease as by the common method of washing them; and when lit up in the evening the lamp never refuses to shed its superb rays all around as there is nothing whatever to prevent it, the glass is so clean and free from smoke, &c.

Every husband admires his wife's cleanliness when he returns home in the evening after a hard day's toil and finds everything looking so bright and cheerful; but the wife keeps her secret and will not tell him that she has used Stafford's Polish to clean the lamp chimney, which is the cause of so much surprise and admiration.
